

GREAT BRITAIN

Snr Sergeant Keith Hardball, Age: 26
Dublin, Ireland

CO impression: +2

Platoon Impression: -3 (-1 Force Morale next battle)

An average guy, unremarkable. Keith is a grease monkey in civvy street, he can strip an engine in no time at all. Has struck up a good friendship with Lt Falgard. After the unexpected death of the Lt, Keith now finds himself suddenly in charge of the platoon. Whilst the men trust him, they still aren't happy with the result from the last encounter.

Corporal Eugene Redfern, Section 1
Age: 42. Plymouth, SW England

An average, unremarkable fellow.

A bohemian, he has been an artist and a writer, whose talents have sadly been unappreciated by the undeserving public. Bit of a chip on his shoulder but feels he deserves this promotion.

Corporal Zachariah Jacobs, Section 2
Age: 25. Dunbar, Scotland

A barrel of a man, he is as broad as he is tall. Made a living as a door to door salesman. Brushes, mops, dusters, a housewife's best friend.

Corporal Peter Echs, Section 3
Age: 25. Nottingham England

Remarkably overweight considering his reliance on Army rations. A waiter in a well-to-do restaurant. Discrete, deferential; his officers appreciate his qualities

